One of the most satisfying rewards I get from my garden is in knowing that the work I have done is not in vain.

Sometimes we work very hard in our gardens only to find that bugs are destroying it faster than we can maintain it.

I like to safeguard my work and one of the best precautions against bugs is to spray during the dormant season. There is a wonderful lime-sulphur emulsion on the market that kills the eggs before they hatch. This dormant spray is reasonably priced and is very effective. Applying this now will save expensive spraying later on.

In the springtime start a regular three week spraying cycle using an all-purpose insect spray containing Dieldrin, Malathion, Chlordane and Toxaphene. By continuing this program throughout the summer, you will have good control of all the insect pests in your garden.

WINNING TEAM . . . Parnelli Jones, no stranger to the winners' circle, including the Indianapolis "500", added another one recently with an impressive win in the Riverside "500". He is shown here with the winning car, which is being displayed at Parnelli Jones Firestone, 29550 Hawthorne Blvd.
